

Marketing Timeline

A navigation chart for the work, evidence, and decisions that shaped company growth.

Maritime clarity. Editorial restraint. Every signal traces back to a source.

History is live

01 — COLOR / NAVIGATION CHART

Signals with a job to do

Signal green marks focus and present time. Evidence blue identifies cited source facts. Everything else stays calm.

03 — RHYTHM & SURFACE

Structure without the dashboard clutter

Flat surfaces first. Borders establish hierarchy. Elevation is reserved for evidence in motion.

04 — NAVIGATION & CONTROLS

Quiet tools around a decisive view

Controls stay compact and familiar so the chronology remains the loudest object on the page.

05 — TIMELINE GRAMMAR

History reads left to right

Hierarchy comes from shape, scale, and position. Color confirms meaning; it never carries meaning alone.

Raw observation — Calculated comparison * Frozen after 7 days

Timing alignment supports human interpretation and does not prove causation.

06 — EVIDENCE & COLLABORATION

The answer is only as strong as its source

Freshness, provenance, cost rules, and team interpretation remain visible at every depth.

The second content wave started before the follower-growth step change.

PB @Person A Agreed—let's compare it with profile visits too.
